VOL. 17, NUMBER 8 — MONESSEN, PA THURSDAY, JUNE 20, 1918 — SIX CENTS THE WEEK

THE "EVERYBODY WORK" EDICT PROVING POPULAR IN EVERY SECTION

Is everybody in Monessen at work? Every city and rural hamlet is asking that question now. The watchword of America is get in and do something. There is no place in America for loafers or idlers of any kind. It is not a fair game to have part of the nation fighting and part paying and part loafing. Have all the idlers here been forced to go to work? In Greensburg a few days ago an ordinance was passed making it a misdemeanor for people to idle their time, and the next day after the law was passed, the police force was put to work and within a week it was reported every man had a job.

This has been done, and is being done, almost everywhere. But there are some sections, where, perhaps, it has been overlooked in the rush of affairs. If that is true in our town, our community, we should see that public sentiment is aroused to the situation.

You want to help win the war. You have bought Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps, and you have given to the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. and to other war work organizations. Your boys have gone to France. There is no question of where your heart is. But possibly you've been so busy with other things that the contrast between your boy fighting in France and the loafers hanging around the streets or the pool rooms or the depot hasn't aroused you to action. Farmers need help—farmers right in your county. They need help to produce more food. The soldiers in France can not "carry on" unless they are fed. And they can't be fed unless America produces the food. Knowing that, how can you tolerate the sight of loafers and idlers in your town? You owe it to your boys in France to see that they are backed up at home—to see that the man who doesn't go to work voluntarily is forced to go to work.

RED CROSS FUND EXCEEDS QUOTA

The welcome news comes from Red Cross headquarters that the Second Red Cross War Fund is over the coveted 800,000 mark. The Pittsburgh Steel Products final report of $9066.65 for the employes of the mill with an accompanying check, put the total over the top with flying colors. This mill had been previously estimated at $7500.00, consequently the official report from the mill came as a welcome surprise and effectually settled the question as whether or not Monessen was to have the proud distinction of making its $40,000 quota twice over. The directors of the Products Co. also donated $2,000 on behalf of the corporation, making a total from this plant of $11,068.65.

Solves Hard Problem

Mrs. John Schachte, wife of the proprietor of the East End hotel at Mt. Pleasant, has solved one of the problems arising as the result of Provost Marshal General Crowder's work or fight order. She has donned the white apron and is taking the place of bartenders who are seeking an occupation essential to the prosecution of the war, as ordered by Crowder.

Meat Regulations

The following regulations effective immediately will govern service of beef and beef products in all hotels, restaurants and public eating places. Roast beef whether hot or cold, should be served only on Monday at midday meal. Stewed, boiled or beef hash on Wednesday and Saturday at midday meal. Steaks in any form, including hamburg steak, on Thursday only at midday meal. By products of beef, such as oxtail, livers, tongues sweetbreads, hearts, brains, kidneys and tripe, may be served at any time. Every patriotic eating place is expected to comply at once. In case of violation, public notice of such should be given and dealers will be ordered to stop supplies under penalty of withdrawal of license

PROPOSE EXTENSION OF AGE LIMIT

The draft age will be extended probably to the ages of 18 to 45. Secretary of War Baker has been persuaded that this is necessary. He has announced that this extension is necessary to raise an army of the required size. Allied and American military leaders are now convinced that the United States must place an army of 5,000,000 in the field if victory is to be won. This will be possible with the proposed extension of the age limit.

Secretary Baker was won over at a conference with General Crowder. The action will not likely come up before fall, but it is expected this year.

The approval of Secretary Baker indicated a similar attitude by President Wilson. The war department is convinced that congress will enact the necessary legislation. The change in draft age is needed only because of the tremendous drain of Class One during the past several months when calls were made exceeding the original estimate.

The available few men in Class One are expected to be exhausted by January 1. Including June calls approximately 1,600,000 men have been called to the colors. The July call wil bring this number up to neary 2,000,000.

Genera Crowder tod the General Military Affairs committee the July call will be 290,000.

Prevent Waste

Pledges by patriotic threshermen to assist in preventing waste of grain during harvest are being recognized by the Food Administration, which is issueing membership certificates to those who enroll in this important conservation measure. According to plans announced by Howard Heinz, U. S. Food Administrator for Pennsylvania, every thresherman will have an opportunity to take his place among those who have put their business on an efficient war basis and are thus upholding the hands of the government.

To obtain one of these certificates which is attractively printed in two colors, and suitable for framing or posting on a threshing machine, a thresherman signs the following pledge:

"In order to be of service to my country in this time of need, particularly in its effort to avoid unnecessary waste of grain during harvest operations, I hereby accept membership in the United States Food Administration, pledging myself and such of my help as can be influenced insofar as my circumstances permit, to operate my threshing machine, so as to reduce the waste of grain, and will go to my County Grain Threshing committee for assistance in the difficulties I may experience, before permitting unnecessary wastage to occur."

Pledge cards containing the foregong text are beng sent to all threshermen whose names and addresses are known by the Food Administration. Threshing machine operators who do not receive such a pledge card can obtain one by application to the U. S Food administrator of his state, or from his county food administrator. When the pledge is signed and returned to the Food Administration, a membership certificate will be issued

NOTICE TO ALIEN WOMEN

All German alien females over the age of 14 must register between June 17 and 26, 1918, in large cities with the chiefs of police, and in the smaller towns and cities and rural districts with the postmasters.

SPEERS BOY KILLED WHILE IN ACTION

Last night's Pittsburgh Press named in the casualty list, as having been killed in action, Robert V. Winnett of Speers. Monday evening Mrs. Nora Winnett of Speers, R. D., received a telegram stating that her son, Robert V. Winnett had been killed in action in France on the 6th of June. The telegram came from Gen. McCain, Adjutant General of the United States army and expressed regret over the loss of the young man, who gave his life for the cause of his country.

Winnett enlisted from the fourth district of Washington county at Coal Centre, having been summoned with the registrants the latter part of February. His enlistment began on the 6th of March at Camp Sherman and just three months later he paid the supreme sacrifice on the western battle front. The deepest sympathy goes out to Mrs. Winnett and other relatives over the untimely death of the young man who answered the summons of his country and gave the best that was in him in the service to which he was called.

The telegram would indicate that some National Army regiments are in the front line trenches and have been taking part in some of the offensive and defensive actions now under way in that important theatre of the war.

After 42 years of active service in the ministrry, Rev. S. B. Houston, pastor of Covenanter church at Connellsville, will retire. Rev. Houston will go to Iowa, where he will reside with his relatives. Rev. Houston continued for 30 years in his first pastorate in Fulton county. He came to Connellsville three years ago.

—The annual outing of the Monongahela Valley Ministerial association will be held at Oakland park, June 28. A sermon will be preached at 11 o'clock, but the remainder of the day will be devoted to athletics and social pleasures. Not only the pastors, but their wives will attend.

CONCERTED ACTION BEING TAKEN TO RAISE MONESSEN'S THRIFT STAMP QUOTA

A meeting was held in the council chamber last night, a number of prominent citizens, gentlemen and ladies being present, in the interest of the War Savings Stamp campaign, which according to the President's proclamation, opens Friday evening, June 28.

A. Brautegam was made chairman of the meeting, and all phases of the work were discussed thoroughly. One feature was the cancelling of the 6 o'clock parade and speaking Friday evening as announced in yesterday's Independent.

It was the sense of the committee that the heads of all the mills be consulted, and their advice asked as to the most expedient course to pursue in raising Monessen's quota which is about $250,000.

This quota is arrived at by taking the official population of 11.000, the figures of the last census taken in 1910, and multiplying by $25,000 per capita which gives properly $275,000. However, the minimum was chosen $250,000 or as near in even figuring to the amount of the First Liberty Loan, as was possible.

Already $20,000 has been raised and it is thought that pledge cards will be taken up by private families, with ample time to redeem same, and a share of the work will fall on the mail carriers, as they have excellent opportunity to come in contact with people who are interested in war work

The object in conferring with the mill heads is to learn if they will instruct their formen to have the pledge cards in their departments and have their men there agree to take as many Thrift Stamps as their position and judgment will permit, instead of having the committee visit their homes.

By this plan all th territory to be handled by the committees will be the business section of the town. The committees are made up as follows:

Gentlemen—A. Brautegam, J. A. Lohman and Alfred Tanzer.

Ladies—Mrs. George Engle, Mrs. J. C. White and Mrs. Harry Lebowitz.

On Trial For Murder

Patrick Medio, on trial at Uniontown for the murder of Raymond Barcello, took the stand in his own behalf yesterday afternoon, following the testimony of the mysterious Mrs.Sara Wright,who was kidnapped from a restaurant in Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, by Medio and Barcello last November and kept a prisoner by them in a house at Dawson, Fayette county, until recently rescued by the police. Medio is the only witness for the defense.

Medio stated that Tony Scabaloni murdered Barcello. He said that he was in a room with Mrs. Wright in Dawson on the night of December 7 last and that at 10 o'clock he heard a shot, and running downstairs, he was told by several other Italians that Tony Scabaloni had shot Barcello following a quarrel over Mrs.Wright.

County Detective John Smith and State Policeman Richard Chambers told how Medio was compelled to sit close to Barcello's body, which had been placed on a marble slab, while Coroner S. H. Bamm performed the autopsy. They said that Medio never flinched.

Their Objections

—Having their finger prints taken is the only part of the alien registration that the German women have objected to, according to the registrars in the city police stations. The ink leaves a dirty mark that is hard to remove from the finger and has caused a number of the registrants to complain

—Mrs. Charles E. Weber of Lonaconing, Md., who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. William Dye, in Detroit, and her father, Alex Boag of Monessen, left this morning for her home, accompanied by her niece, Miss Agnes Jacobs, who will spend her school vacation with her.

BAKER IS VIOLATING FOOD LAW

A meeting of the bakers of Charleroi was held in P. H. C. hall Monday evening under the direction of Deputy Food Administrator Darby, the object being to discuss the various regulations concerning the baking trade, and to urge that all bakers follow strictly the rules laid down by the national food administratoin. Bakers were present from Donora and Roscoe and the meeting proved to be very harmonious and helpful.

Joseph Mosetich, a Donora baker, laid a complaint against a Monessen baker which it is alleged has come into Washington county and taken over a great deal of trade formerly supplied by bakers on this side of the river. Mr. Mosetich said that he had a customer in Monongahela who formerly took 100 loaves of bread per day, but the Monessen baking firm had come in with its bread, which from appearances contained no substitutes, and was now supplying 600 loaves to this same Monongahela merchant. A sample of the bread was shown and all bakers present but one said there was no cereal in its composition. One baker said there was a small amount. The matter will be laid before the food administration for action. The government officials insist on 25 per cent. substitutes in all bread and say that such composition is absolutely necessary in order to conserve white flour.

How to Make Clothes Last

Everybody remembers that old joke about making one's trousers first in order to make the coat last.

Now a days every man is interested in making his whole suit last and the best way to do that is at first, when you buy it.

Buy good clothes, all wool clothes, carefully tailored clothes. They cost a little more but they last so much longer that they save for you in the long run.

Such clothes save wool for the fighters and labor for war work because you don't have to buy so many of them.

Our clothes are that kind. Come in.

FARM CAMPS AND GANGS

Some people claim that the trouble in securing workers on the farms frequently comes from failure to provide accommodations for these men. This does not apply to the small farm where one or two helpers live and eat with the family and fare as well as anyone. However there are no doubt many farm hands who have to put up with stuffy quarters over a shed or in a barn. This does not promote permanency of employment.

On big farms the providing of comfortable accomodations for workers becomes a problem. Many observers say labor would be more easily obtained and accomplish more, if gangs and camps of employers could be organized to work for an entire farm district, and go through it systmatically, according to methods of modern efficiency.

They think that under a hustling foreman, who should lay out a certain standard to be accomplished, the aggregate done would exceed what is now accomplished by puttering farm hands working for the individual farmer.

Last summer there was an extraordinary demand for labor to harvest the peach crop in Niagara county, New York. The farmers met and agreed on a uniform price and hired gangs through their county agent. They fitted out comfortable bunk houses and attracted enough labor by doing the thing in a business like way, with regard for the interest of the help, to harvest the crop satisfactorily.

The farmers complain that everyone is kicking on the prices they have to charge now, and they say they can't afford extra frills. But it is quite possible that a gang of farm workers for a whole neighborhood, directed and supervised like factory workmen, might put through so much work that the advantage of making them permanently comfortable might be apparent.

THE SMALL PICKINGS

A friend from one of the centers of war material manufacture was telling a few days ago, that people were renting rooms that would accommodate four people, for $6.00 a person, or $24.00 a room. These were small rooms that would probably have rented for about $2.00 a week for one person previous to the war.

On that basis a family that rented three or four rooms would make $3,000 to $5,000 a year. And yet these same people probably denounce the corporations that are supposed to be profiteering.

These people may say that all this money comes out of the government and no one will know the difference. Yet that kind of thing is going to make the cost of this war much higher than it need be. When a stenographer has to pay $6.00 a week for half a bed in a room accommodating four girls, she expects enough more to make up the extra price and discomfort. The public will pay the bills in taxes.

The people who take war workers as boarders are entitled to charge enough more to pay for the extra cost of food and service they have to hire. But when people rent rooms in houses owned before the war, they are at no higher expense. They ought to be glad to let the workers have quarters at a reasonable price, and to do it as their willing contribution toward our great cause.

The government has had its hands very busy with the big profiteers. It has had little time to get after the people who are after the small pickings of war. But these little leaks will have to be looked after. People must be made to feel that the spirit of grabbing all that can be had must be stopped, in small things as well as in great.

THE ALIEN SLACKERS

It is a manifest injustice that hundreds of thousands of alien residents can now step into the jobs that our own young men have left to go to war. The aliens are practically Americans. They get all the benefits of American life. Yet if they retain citizenship in some other country, they escape service in their native country, and they can't be drafted here. Thus they seem to succeed in defiance of the old proverb, in eating their cake and having it too. They get us both going and coming.

Congress has passed resolutions asking that treaties be entered into with our allies for the drafting of their subjects now in this country. But some hitch has been encountered, the real nature of which has not been fully explained. Such treaties were drafted, but were withdrawn by the state department some two months ago.

It may be the government fears the establishment of some kind of a precedent that might be burdensome in future years. Or our allies may be raising objections. But at a time when they need man power so badly, it is almost inconceivable that they would oppose such agreements.

Such treaties ought to be strictly limited to the present war, as we ought to make unlimited arrangements of this kind. If so limited, no precedent embarrassing in future could be created.

It is grossly unjust that these men should be permitted to escape from the duty that confronts them. Why should our young men have to fight to keep them safe and prosperous here in this country? They owe as much to America as anyone. Let them help America in the hour of danger. Most of them would willingly comply if legally drafted.

Hohenzollern Family Secrets Revealed for the First Time

(By MISS LEDA NEVING.)

A Swiss Girl Who Was Dressing Maid to Princess Auguste Wilhelm.

The Crown Prince, as I told you earlier, was not on very good terms with his brother Auguste. The Marmor Palais, the Potsdam residence of the Crown Prince, was only about a mile from Vraburg, but the Crown Prince during the whole time I was at Potsdam did not come more than half a dozen times to his brother's house.

On the other hand, the Crown Princess was a fairly frequent visitor to Vraburg, for she and the Princess Auguste were very good friends, and the Princess frequently went to Marmor Palais, and also met the Crown Princess at various entertainments in Berlin and at different country houses I often stayed at country houses with the Crown Princess and the Princess Auguste Wilhelm. These visits extended generally to about a week, and I found them usually very amusing and entertaining.

The Crown Princess was a somewhat troublesome guest. She always breakfasted in her private rooms, to which she would usually ask two or three special friends who might be among the house party. After the breakfast the Princess' hostess would come to her room and ascertain how the Princess would like to spend the day. The Princess might suggest a drive or a walk somewhere, or a visit to some of the neighbors or she might prefer to remain at home and play lawn tennis or croquet.

Any way, until the Princess had made up her mind as to what she was going to do no arrangements could be made for entertaining or amusing the other guests during the day, as etiquette forbade them to start out on any sort of expedition until the Crown Princess had decided what she would do during the day.

Possibly the Princess might, if she went for a drive or walk, ask some of the other guests to accompany her and this they had to be ready to do.

Sometimes the Crown Princess would elect to stay in her rooms the whole day, and not make her appearance downstairs until after dinner time. She would then tell her hostess to make any preparations she pleased about the day's arrangements for entertaining her other guests; or possibly the Crown Princess would ask one or two of her fellow guests to come to tea in her room in the afternoon and of course they had to obey what was virtually the Royal command, whether they desired to do so or not.

Once I was at a house party, when a lady refused to accept the Crown Princess' invitation to come to tea in her room. This lady was an American, and had married a Captain Glesker, an officer in a Westphalian regiment. When her hostess told her that the Crown Princess desired her company to afternoon tea, Frau Glesker replied: "Oh, please tell her Royal Highness that I am going for a long motor drive today, and will not be back until the dinner hour."

The Princess Auguste Wilhelm heard the lady say this and she told me that her hostess' expression of surprise and embarressment at the lady's reply greatly amused her.

The hostess tried to explain to her guest that an invitation of this kind from the Crown Princess had to be regarded as a command, but Frau Glesker either would not or could not understand this.

"Pray, convey my thanks to the Crown Princess," she said "and tell her Royal Highness that I shall be very pleased to have tea with her some other afternoon."

The Crown Princess was fearfully indignant at her invitation being declined She told her hostess that either Frau Glesker must leave the house the next day or that she would, and the Crown Princess refused to appear at dinner that night and dined in her room.

Her hostess, however, managed to get the American lady to make an apology to the Crown Princess the next day, which she persuaded the Princess to accept after much difficulty and a long explanation of Frau Glesker's ignorance of Court etiquette.

The Crown Princess of Germany was rather liked both among her relatives and in society. She was subject to fits of temper, but they were not of frequent occurrence Normally the Crown Princess was a bright, vivacious lady, and always very smartly attired

One afternoon at Vraburg the Crown Princess came over to see the Princess Auguste Wilhelm, and had tea with her in the Princess' boudoir I was in the adjoining apartment making some alterations on one of the Princess' gowns. I heard the conversation between the two Princesses, and it rather diverted me. It was largely upon a love affair at Court in which they took some interest and on love affairs in general.

The Court love affair concerned a lady in waiting in the house hold of the Princess Leopold of Russia, a sister in law of the German Empress This lady in waiting was Fraulein Charlotte Stromberg, and she was reputed at that time to be engaged to a Captain Matzpan, who was an equerry to Prince Leopold of Prussia.

"I cannot, "said the Crown Princess, "understand why Charlotte is throwing herself away on that ugly, stupid equerry of the Prince's. Charlotte is not very pretty, but she is extremely clever and well off and would make a good match."

"Well," answered the Princess Auguste. "Charlotte has not too much time to spare; she is thirty three. I cannot understand why she did not marry before. Was she waiting all these years for Captain Matzpan to propose to her"

"Perhaps she was," replied the Crown Princess. "I know for a fact that during the eight years she has been with the Leopolds she refused three good offers. What Charlotte can see in Captain Matzpan I am at a loss to imagine, and he is ten years older than Charlotte."

"I don't think I could possibly fall in love with a man ten years older than myself," said the Crown Princess, and then after a slight pause she added, with a smile, "What good wives we have been, Auguste. We have never thought of falling in love since we married."

"Do you remember Captain von Markstein," asked the Princess Auguste

How The Bayonet Lost a Great Battle

BAYONETS, first made at Bayonne, France, whence they get their name, to begin, were almost as dangerous to the army with them as to its foe.

Fashioned with a solid butt, to be jammed into the muzzle, it rendered a gun useless for firing.

The butt was soon changed to a socket, but not before the new fangled bayonet brought the English army to grief at Killiekrankie.

The English soldier found the bayonet a poor fit, hard to get into his gun; and when he got it in, hard to get out. When he had to bayonet, he couldn't bayonet; when he had to shoot, he couldn't shoot.

GOODRICH SERVICE VALUE TIRES

The bayonet experiment gave the Scots the battle.

To safeguard tire users against the chance of experiment, Goodrich Test Car Fleets put the road test to Goodrich Tire, to make them in word and deed SERVICE VALUE TIRES.

Goodrich sees but one tire value, SERVICE VALUE—

That is, what a tire proves it is worth to the motorist on his car and on the road, in comfort, economy, dependability, and durability.

All Goodrich skill and sincerity build up SERVICE VALUE, whether you get SILVERTOWN CORD TIRES, or BLACK SAFETY TREADS, you get SERVICE VALUE TIRES.

Gain mileage, and the security of knowing your tires will not fail, by demanding SERVICE VALUE TIRES.

What Will Men do After The War

Paris, June 17.—What are the men of France going to do after the war.

The women are in the saddle every where except in th war and in politics, and its not going to be an easy matter to dislodge them.

The government is already grappling with its "after the war" problems.

A semi-official organization, comprising the best brains of the nation and working with the full co-operation of the government, is trying to figure out some plan whereby the returned soldiers can get their old jobs back.

The present situation is usual in these respects:

1. In civil pursuits, hundreds of thousands of men now in the army have been replaced by women workers.

2. Many big employers will object, after the war, to discharging the women because, in many instances, the women do their work better than the men.

3. Countless French women have found economic independence since the beginning of the war, and matrimony doesn't appear attractive to them now.

Practically every able-bodied man in France, up to 47 years, is mobilized for military duty. When the millions of Frenchmen gave up their jobs to follow the colors, the women stepped into the vacancies.

Paris' wonderful subway system is being operated almost entirely by the women—thousands of them.

There's no question that the women are better conductors than the men—were.

A pretty 22 year old woman conductor "threw" a man off one of the trains the other day because his ticket was no good and he refused to pay a cash fare.

Her trump card consisted of a pair of expressive brown eyes and a sweet smile. She let her eyes rove inquiringly to three or four Frenchmen who had been looking on. They seized the fellow and roughly bundled him through the door. She paid them with smiles of gratitude.

Skilled mechanics are about the only one who have little to fear from female competition. While they, too, have been mobilized, they have been kept in the factories and shops making guns, munitions and other supplies.

Retail establishments of all kinds are in the hands of the women, except for a few old men and boys. A big majority of the bank employes are women too.

The organization that is considering the "what to do with our men" problem, has a number of possible solutions, among them:

That married women with small children shall not work if the husband's earning are sufficient.

That unmarried women with sufficient incomes for their needs shall not hold jobs that can be filled by the men.

That returned soldiers with families shall be given first preference for employment after the war.

We Must Bear Our Burdens Cheerfully

"If our soldiers can face death with cheerfulness, if they can spring forward to their fate with shouts of victory and exult in that for which they die, shall we cast a shadow over their triumph and go about garbed in mourning when they have died so gloriously Doubtless as they awaited their doom, many manly hearts ached with homesickness and longing for those who were left behind, but they knew that if the battle was to be won it could not be with regrets or repining. While the heart ached, the face was bright, the voice cheerful, the spirit undaunted. So we, too, must meet our fate, whatever it may be, in the same spirit and show to the world that as our men can die bravely, women can live bravely.

"A badge was suggested by many who feel it our duty to emulate the example of the British women and wear no mourning, yet who desire to honor our dead. To meet this demand and to secure uniformity, the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense adopted, and the President approved, a black band 3 inches wide, upon which shall be placed a gold star for each member of the family lost in the service of our country, and which shall be worn on the left arm.

"This badge is not so much a symbol of mourning as of the rank of those who have been counted worthy to make the supreme sacrifice for their country and for humanity."

Exportation of Belgian Children

From time to time mention of the exportation of Belgian children to Switzerland has been made in American newspapers, and now, through "Information Belges," the Regulations governing the transportation of the sons and daughters of Belgian soldiers killed or maimed in the war are transmitted. According to this authority, the "Teutonized Brussels press" publishes the following:

"The charity for clothing the children of killed or maimed Belgian soldiers, 'Habilement des Orphelins de Nos Soldats et de Nos Mutiles,' has organized emigration service for Belgian children to Switzerland under the protection of the Belgian Government after an agreement with the occupying authorities.

"In order to be admitted to participation in this trip the children must be at least 13 years and 15 days old and must leave with the intention of remaining for the duration of the war.

"The trips can include all children without exception. Parents wishing to send their children on these trips are required to comply with the following rules:

"(1) They must sign an agreement to allow the children to remain away until the end of hostilities, and must release the society and its officers from all responsibility whatsoever.

"(2) They must file a certificate of identification for each child.

"(3) Deposit photographs in triplicate, unmounted.

"(4) File a medical certificate stating that the children have been vaccinated and certifying that they are not suffering from any contagious disease.

"(5) File a certificate of good conduct from the school which the children have last attended.

"The children admitted to one of these trips will be provided at Brussels with arm bands furnished by the association, and identification cards, and will be under a specially organized system of surveillance.

"The children will be conducted in groups to Liege and from there to Switzerland, where they will be received by a representative of the Belgian Government, will be submitted to medical inspection in order to determine the best locality for them, according to their physical condition.

Drive For Home Canning This Summer

Washington, D. C., June 20.—The home canning drive for 1,500,000,000 quarts of "put up" foods in 1918 is on. Three thousand home demonstration agents and leaders in boys' and girls' club work in the United States Department of Agriculture are ready to help the nation to this goal They have started out to teach the nation to can and to do a good job of it. In addition to this number, many thousands of volunteer leaders are working with these extension forces of the department on the summer campaign Last year the home canners put up 850,000,000 quarts, it is estimated.

Every canning club group among the boys' and girls' clubs in the North and West is organizing a demonstration team of expert canners. These teams will be uniformed and will give demonstrations at public meetings in their communities. Over thirty thousand boys and girls will take part in this work. Ten manufacturers of rubber rings for glass jars have raised the quality of the rings to a standard required by the Department of Agriculture This will be an important factor in encouraging more canning, for the assurance of good rings will mean an increased out put of canned product among the home canners

Manufacturers of glass jars, stone crockery ware, tin cans and fibre boxes are also cooperating in improving their products and in securing a sufficient supply to meet the summer's demands

Sufficient sugar will be available this summer for home canning, according to the United States Food Administration The only requirement made is for a signed statement that the amount purchased is to be used for that purpose Local regulations governing the maximum amount of sugar for canning allowed to individuals during the season are made by State Food Administrators.

You can't cover blackheads, pimples, red spots on the face with powder; they're bound to be seen—don't worry or spoil your temper, take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea each week—it will banish them through the blood—the only sure way 35c.—Crane's drug store adv

Helped Him Save; Marries Another

St. Louis, Mo, June 18.—What profiteth in a young woman to encourage her affianced to economize and save the money if by so doing she causes him to seek out an heiress to marry?

That very thing happened to pretty Miss Innis Russell Hopkins, who recently filed a $25,000 breach of promise suit in Chicago against Elliot Redfield Andrews, treasurer of the Signal System, Inc., of Chicago Andrews is secretary of the Princeton club of Chicago and was secretary to Woodrow Wilson, when the latter was the President of Princeton university.

Miss Hopkins today discussed her alleged engagement to Andrews after she learned that Andrews was on his honeymoon with his bride, who was Miss Helen McKeel Dawell, a Pittsburg heiress. They were married on April 20

"We had not heard of the marriage," said the mother of Miss Hopkins "But presumably she is a wealthy girl. It is an outrage for a strange man to come into the city, use a girl's home, her automobile, and even entertain his business associates in her home and then leave town and marry another girl."

Miss Hopkins spoke lightly of the suit. But her mother wept.

"I filed suit, not expecting to receive money, but to vindicate my honor as a true American girl and the honor of an American home," said the young woman."

"Do you still love Mr Andrews?"

Miss Hopkins glanced at a magnificent diamond ring on her finger and smiled

"I didn't break the engagement and I still wear his ring," she replied She moved the ring and showed it to a reporter Inside the loop were the initials E A R to L R H 1914

"When I first met Mr. Andrews," she went on, "he had no money other than his salary—not a large one He was improvident, but I persuaded him to save and in a short time he had $500 in a savings bank He bought stock with this money. I never allowed Mr. Andrews to be extravagant when entertaining me.

"When we went to the theatre if he had purchased expensive seats I would upon his exchanging them for less expensive ones

"Our engagement was announced at a dinner party given at my home on June 14, 1914 Mrs Frederick D Gardner, wife of Rev. Gardner of Missouri, announced it We were to have been married in January, 1916 at the marriage was postponed several times by Mr Andrews.

"It was a real surprise when he started writing to me. He wrote me every night Some of his letters are still here The table heads were bought for our home to be. All the table linens is monogrammed "H R A" I have sheets full of linen bodies, shoes, gowns, lingerie"

May Suspend Baseball During War

There is a widespread sentiment for the suspension of baseball during the period of the world war, thus concentrating the money and energy it takes to keep alive this unnecessary institution into channels that will aid in winning the war. Those directly interested in the enterprise are loath to give up their business.

President Tener of the National League, and President Johnson of the American League, are emphatic in their denial of any contemplated closing now or hereafter, and their views are shared by all the prominent magnates, who are all gratified by the unexpectedly good attendance in all the major league cities and also in many of the minor league towns. Still further changes and economies may have to be endured for this season, for it is absolutely assured now that the major leagues, at least, will finish the season. And this goes for next season, also, although that may entail still further changes, involving even, perhaps the circuits of the two major leagues—but that is an after consideration, the main business ebing a satisfactory conclusion of the 1918 season.

An important result of present conditions is that at the end of the season players will be forced to change their mode of living. Instead of giving themselves over to six months of idleness and luxury, the players will be compelled to take up some necessary industry or join the army or navy. The players will undoubtedly turn their hands to some needed industry or useful occupation They are as a general average, young fellows in fit condition able to step into a factory or munition plant and they will be the better for it both physically and mentally, as there is no great reason why they should not work all the year at some useful occupation and ball playing in the summer.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completly eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomain-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

Women in Industry

Women in industry are to-day offered better chances to work advantageously than ever before, according to Mrs. Raymond Robins, president of the National Woman's Trade Union League.

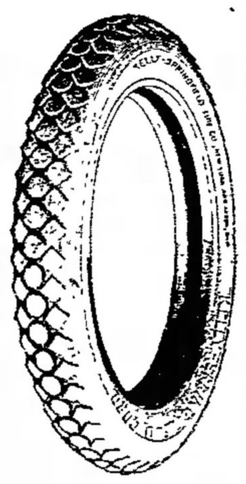
"Conditions surrounding women in industry open greater opportunities that an any previous time," said Robins. "Women to-day have an opportunity for collective activity in the matter of standardizing industry and wages that they have never had before. All sorts of openings are available to them

"One of the things that bother women in industry is the absoolute lack of any standardization of wages. We are told that wages are dependent on skill, as they they ought to be, but they are not. By the way of illustration, I would site the cases of two young women, machine operator on strike. They went to a garment factory and were offered $4 a week for running machines, but at another place they secured positions at $15 a month for the same work."

Mrs Robins called attention to the rules which have been made for the protection of women working in railroad and lumber yards. "The limit that women are permitted to lift in these places is 25 pounds," said Mrs. Robins. "Women from time immemorial have lifted babies of heavier weight, and to-day, as laundresses, as waitresses, and charwomen they are habitually lifting weights greatly in excess of this maximum, with no protest from industrial bodies.

What we must try to do is to steer a course between the things women are fitted to do and not overemphasize the hazards of new industries in a way to make it appear that conditions surrounding the old are all ideal."

Kelly-Springfield Cord Tires



Five hundred of them were tested on cars loaded to weigh 5,200 pounds. Each demonstration had instructions to drive until a tire burst. They drove day and night, changing shifts, through mud, snow and ice, over hard, soft and rutty roads. No owner would ever drive his own car over such roads long, certainly not 12,000 miles.

But Kelly-Springfield Cords averaged 11,725 miles on rear wheels, 14,000 on front wheels—or 12,000 miles all around.

Two treads—grooved and non-skid.

What they would do on smooth macadam, goodness only knows.
